"The Association between Bullying and Suicide"

Tuesday, March 20, 2012, 10:30, Faculty club, IDC Herzliya Campus

Typical media message lately is that bullying among adolescents causes suicide. This message does not tell the full story. This presentation will include a review of the current cross-sectional and longitudinal studies examining the association between bullying and suicide. Cross sectional studies indicate a clear association between bullying and suicide among children and adolescents but longitudinal studies are necessary to establish causality. Longitudinal studies have just started to be published. These longitudinal studies indicate that there is a complex relationship between bullying and risk of suicidal ideation/behavior and that it varies by gender.
