Book Review Report

January 2013
Professor Paul ‘t Hart
Book Review Editor

The table below presents a summary of the books that have been received for review. Most books came to us with the help of the Political Psychology editors at the IDC Herzliya office. The last two months, more publishers reached us directly. In January 2013, we are actively engaged in seeking new books for review in the catalogs of publishers.

When books arrive, the book review editor examines them to identify those that should definitely be reviewed because of their significance to readers of the Journal. After reviewers are chosen, books are sent out promptly for review. Books deemed of lesser importance may be held a bit longer so that the selection of books for long or short reviews, or no reviews at all, can be made from a larger pool. As one can see from the overview, the number of books which came along is still limited. The address for book reviews was only changed in November so that from that moment on, more books were sent to the book review editor directly.

The following summary table indicates our dispositions concerning books received and reviews received and/or published during 2012. Seven (7) reviews were published in 2012. They include four (4) books received in 2010 and three (3) books received in 2011. Eight (8) books are currently out for review. We are still seeking a reviewer for one (1) book received in 2012. Two (2) books were not sent out for review because we deemed them unsuitable for various reasons. One (1) book is still being considered for review. As time passes, it will become too old for review.
