Searching for eligible candidates for the Global and Willig Program 2009. The program will be held on the fourth day of January 28, 2009, at 19:00 in Room 2S, in the library building.

The program is unique in the international field of leadership and entrepreneurship, and is held annually with the support of the Elkeigok Foundation at Lehigh University (Lehigh). The program will be held between the dates of 20 July and 1 August 2009.

The program is open to 80-40 candidates of different nationalities, and comprises courses and practical experience in various countries, cultures, and languages. The program, without exams or grades, provides a valuable educational experience to its participants, allowing them to develop their personal and professional goals. Elkeigok Foundation guides the participants, teaching them how to handle business in a global environment, how to define their current and future careers, how to work as a team as part of an international project, how to improve their professional skills, and how to build social networks. The program is not academic in nature, and there are no grades or exams. Candidates must be motivated, and the program is open to students or graduates of the center.

Global Village Program 2009 – Information Session and a Lecture

Wednesday, January 28th, 2009 class S-2, the library building

The IDC Herzliya Entrepreneurship Center is looking for qualified candidates for the 2009 Global Village program.

Global Village offers a unique summer internship program in leadership, entrepreneurship and cross cultural training at the Lehigh University campus in Pennsylvania. Program dates this year are June 20 - August 1, 2009 (6 weeks).

Global Village brings together a diverse group of more than 80 interns, coming from more than 35 countries, representing a myriad of cultures, speaking numerous languages, and offering unique perspectives based on the group's varied educational backgrounds.

The program provides a learning experience, not courses, discussions or lectures. Interns establish their own goals and objectives and work with Iacocca Institute staff to map out an experience-based action plan. In addition the program enables its participants to:

- Clarify career goals from a "mountain top" perspective.
- Learn how to conduct international business from outstanding executives.
- Improve teamwork skills while working on an international project.
- Develop a network of friends who are current and future leaders.
- Represent their country.
- A combination of entrepreneurial and leadership studies and contribution to the community, all taking place in an intimate and challenging environment.

No academic prerequisites required for this program, and it is not graded. The program is looking for IDC students and Alumni with demonstrated leadership skills and entrepreneurship ambitions.
